Hot Metal laminate gives a warm reception.

Receptions, foyers, lobby and waiting rooms are important areas to any business. These areas greet the public, and it's where your business image is on display. The appearance and feel of such spaces, can say a great deal about your company's professionalism, service, attitude, image and branding.

With this in mind, Hot Metal laminate was used for a large medical reception desk, measuring 10 metres long by 1 metre high. Selected in the colour gold and random pattern, its design is simple, unique and striking. The reception desk is the focus in this waiting room, displaying interesting effects giving the surrounds an extra dimension. Hot Metal laminate was chosen for this project because of its outstanding visual effects and appeal, and because it is a product that matched the company's image being, bright, positive, professional and progressive.
